U.S. TROOPS WILL ENTER MEXICO TODAY

VILLA DECREES EXECUTION OF ALL CAPTURED AMERICANS—ACTUAL WAR CONDITIONS EXIST THROUGHOUT BORDER TOWNS—U. S. SOLDIERS TO SEIZE 100,000 ROUND AMMUNITION TRAIN DESTINED FOR RAIDERS.

(By International News Service.)

EL PASO, March 11.—Owing to the recent startling developments in regard to the international situation, conditions of actual warfare prevail here today. General Funston is expected to reach the border within 24 hours and begin his march into Mexico. It is an admitted fact that he is opposed to any sort of delay.

Munition Train Ordered Captured.

Several military automobiles crowded with United States troops were ordered out this morning to capture a wagon train which left last night with 100,000 rounds of ammunition destined for the army of the bandit murderer, Villa.

The soldiers received instructions to seize the supply at any cost. American authorities agree the shot and shell must, under no circumstances, reach the raiders.

Villa to Execute All Americans.

Villa, who is thought to be encamped at La Abcension, Chihuahua, with a large force of men, has publicly decreed the instant death of all Americans that fall into his hands. The announcement shows an utter disregard for the most primitive laws of warfare and has created intense hatred even in his own country.

Several former rebel officers and supporters were wounded and placed under guard today by the United States authorities. Among them were Generals Luna, Banda, Loba and a dozen civilians.

Carranza to Co-operate.

COLUMBUS, New Mexico, March 11.—A rather contradictory report has gotten into circulation here to the effect that Provisional President Carranza, of Mexico, has promised to co-operate with the American troops in the capture of Villa. This is precisely what Washington forbid. From official statements issued at the capital during the last few days, it was understood this government required "hands off" should the United States decide to intervene.

General Bertini, with 1,200 Carranza troops arrived opposite Douglas this morning, and assured Colonel Slocum he would help him in his search through Mexico. The general also stated his own men had effectually cut off the bandit and his followers from the main line of a railroad over which 500 American Mormons are making for the border aboard special trains.

The Mormons are coming from Casas Grandes and United States officials are greatly relieved by the Mexican general's announcement. A massacre seemed inevitable before.

Columbus Buries Dead.

All business in this city is today suspended while vast throngs of mourners march in the public funeral of those who died defending their town and country. As soon as the interment of the bodies takes place, the captured raiders will be tried for murder.

FUNSTON TO LEAD "BOYS IN KHAKE" INTO MEXICAN FASTNESSES—WAR DEPARTMENT GIVES HIM UNLIMITED POWER—• DRIVE WILL SWEEP ACROSS LINE AT MANY POINTS—TO STRIKE QUICK, HARD BLOW.

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The campaign of preparing American troops for an invasion into the interior of Mexico is well under way and it is believed General Funston and a force of 5,000 men will cross the international line before nightfall.

The war department admits the above, but refuses to permit the publication in detail of military movements. It is known, however, United States soldiers are converging on the border and will start a drive probably simultaneously from several different points.

Three Supply Stations Established.

El Paso, Douglas Arizona, and Columbus, New Mexico have been established as bases for the American army. General Funston has been given practically unlimited power and may conduct operations exactly as he sees fit.

No official word from Carranza was received by the state department up to noon today, according to Secretary Lansing, but confidential reports rumor he will offer co-operation with Washington if his troops are given the privilege to enter American territory in the pursuit of Villa.

Spies to Be Rounded Up.

The department of justice today ordered increased vigilance in the city of New Orleans, Texas, and New York agents are instructed to round up all spies and suspicious characters. It is thought throughout official circles, plots may be afoot to destroy munitions and prominent buildings at vital commercial points in the U. S.

WILD DUCK ENTANGLED IN FISHERMAN'S LINE

A peculiar incident occurred yesterday at the North Bridge, when a resident or winter resident, of Kingston, who was fishing from the bridge, landed a wild duck instead of the expected member of the finny tribe. The duck, in diving, became entangled in the line of the fisherman, and after considerable work was landed on the bridge and released from its uncomfortable position. The unusual occurrence created much excitement among the anglers on the bridge at the time.

PARIS OVERTURES TO U.S. IMPORTERS

To Form a Franco-American Alliance of Fashions.

SOME NOVELTIES FOR 1916

Barrel Skirts and Algerian Pelerines
Are the Most Striking Features.
French Will No Longer Dictate the Modes to the American Woman if the Present Plans Go Through.

A circular letter has just been sent out in Paris to American buyers for the big stores and to leading New York importers by the Chambre Syndicale de la Couture Parisienne, signed by M. Aime, the president, and by M. Doeuillet, the former president, inviting them to attend a meeting at the American Chamber of Commerce to form a "Franco-American alliance" to settle the difficulties affecting the dressmaking trade. The letter says that "owing to the importance given to the question of Paris models and to the measures taken by certain dressmaking concerns and by the American press" the chamber considers it advisable to study with the chief representatives of the New York houses what methods shall be followed for the common good.

As the Chambre Syndicale Parisienne includes all members of the Couture Defense Syndicate except Polret and Worth, it is expected that a satisfactory agreement will be reached and the Couture Defense Syndicate eliminated.

At the recent fashion show in Paris the tonneau, or barrel, skirt was a notable feature. It is quite distinct from the pannier, running in a convex line from the waist to the bottom of the skirt instead of pulling at the hips, as the pannier does. Tailor made and evening gowns for young women attracted special attention. A striking novelty was serge satin faille walking coats embroidered in metal on the hips or in wide bands around the bottom. The predominant colors were mauve and various shades of violet.

The features of the Beers collection were crepe gowns and coats and striking debutante frocks.

Premet and Bernard had larger collections than last year, the latter, as usual, showing elegant tailor made suits. Their tonneau skirts for gowns were less successful owing to the use of small hoops at the sides of the hips to produce the barrel effect, which gave a bunched appearance instead of a harmonious line. The colors were chiefly somber.

Margaine-Lacroix, little heard of since the introduction of the Directoire skirt, came back with a very successful collection, whose feature was the red or blue Algerian coat copied from the voluminous cloak of the Spahi officers. Utilizable either as a cloak or pelerine, it is certain to be widely copied and worn everywhere. Long pelerines, almost reaching the ground, to cover the entire dress, shown by a most all the houses, form one of the season's most popular notes as the only style of over wear falling gracefully over the new skirts.

Some Styles For Men.

Buttons will be distributed on men's coats this season according to the height of the wearer, it was announced at the opening of the annual convention of the International Custom Cutters' association in Kansas City, Mo. The short man will have a one button sack coat; the medium sized man will have two buttons on his coat; the tall man will get three buttons, or four if he is tall enough. This decree was embodied in the report of the styles committee of the association.

The committee reported that the form fitting coat would still rule as correct, but that it would be longer and bear a narrower lapel and narrower collar than last season. Spring coats will be skeleton lined, unpadding and will run to crescent shaped patch pockets.

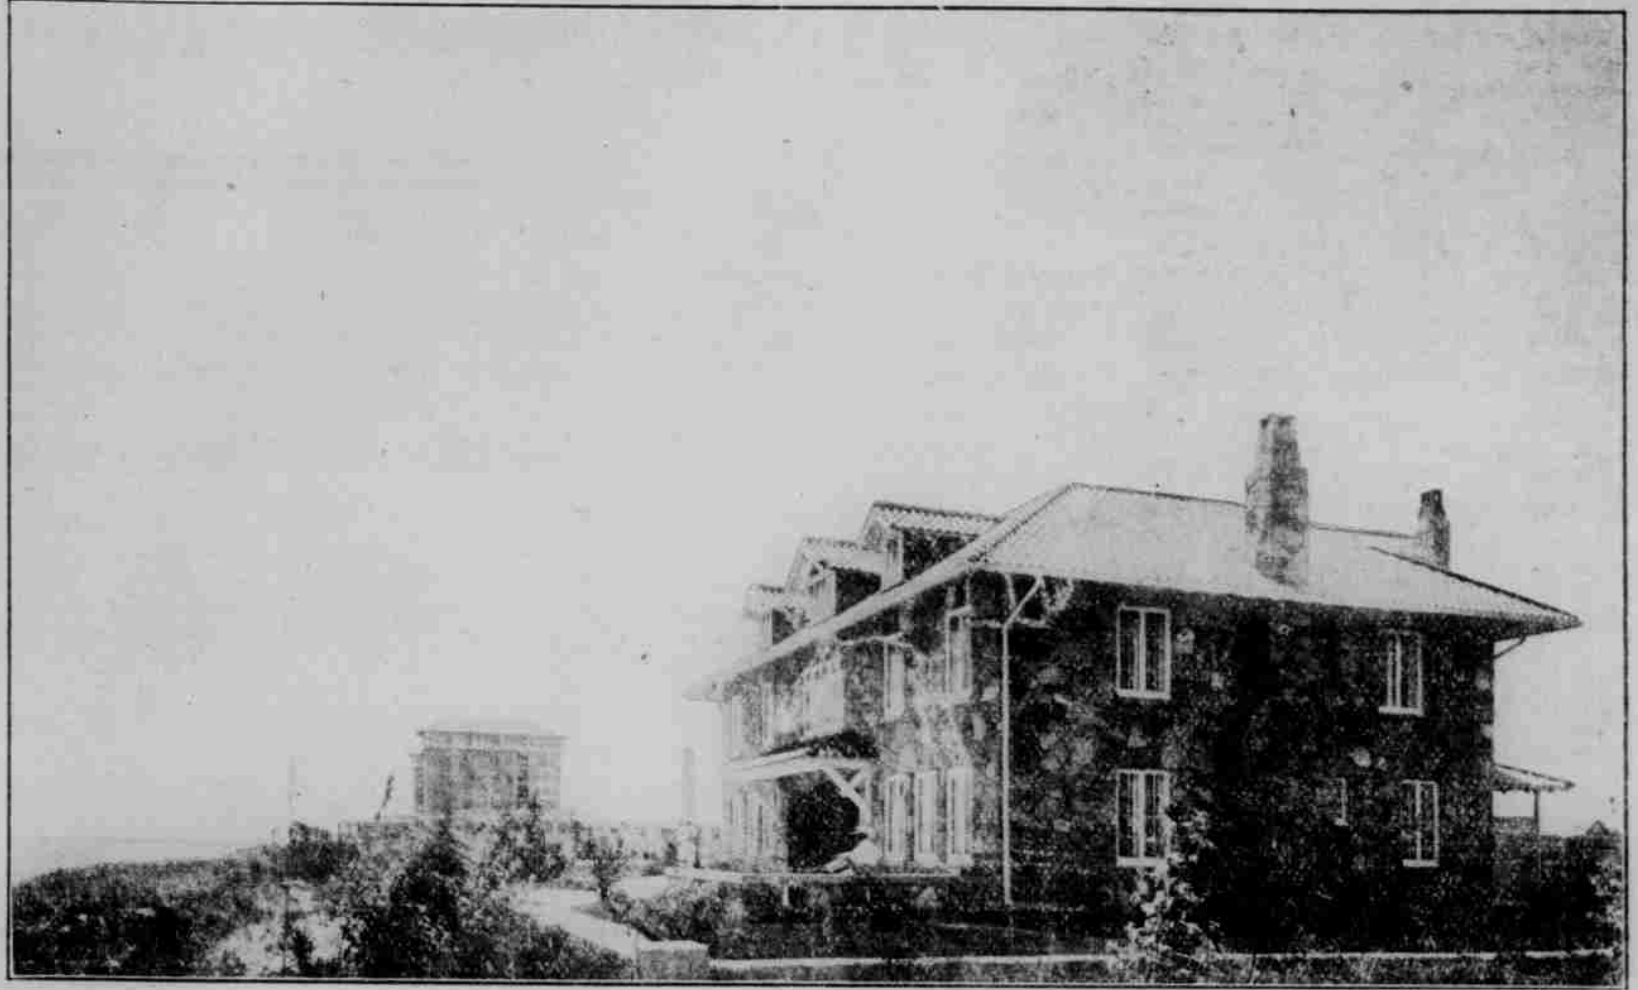

Full dress coats will be longer in front, the collar and lapels narrower, and there will be an outer breast pocket. The white silk vest should be "U" shaped, and there should be narrow braid on the trousers.

The coat to the dinner suit will have the outer breast pocket bound in a narrow strip of satin, and the lapels also will be faced with satin. The vest to the dinner suit will be of black silk, close fitting and "V" shaped.

Optimistic Department, Devoted to Cheering Up "The Land of Sunshine."
(By GENE JONES.)

Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. I have come before you today to perform a most difficult task. A task that requires much skill, much fearlessness and much faith. I am here to apologize!

Yesterday, in deep, dark doleful didactic words, I made fun of one of Daytona's municipal buildings—the jail! Now, I don't want to make too much talk about so small a thing, but as I was saying: Yesterday I stated the authorities couldn't lock me in jail because there was another man in there first. Gentlemen, I was wrong in that statement—terribly wrong. I talked to the police force yesterday and he told me I was wrong. He could have put me in jail. The other inmate was the celebrated thin man from Johnnie Jones' show.

Below you will find one of the most pathetic little stories ever put in beautiful, simple verse. It deals easily but grandly with a great sorrow—a sorrow that might easily last through a man's whole life. Think of that!

"HALL OF FAME."

Armstrong says the city hall is beautiful to him:
We think Ben Armstrong has his gall,
We think his joke is grim!

He says it is a landmark dear,
And don't want it removed;
He says he thinks it's handsome here,
We'd like to see it proved.

Armstrong owns some property.
He owns a Ridgewood home;
He also owns the company
That owns the telephone.

If harm should touch the city hall,
Ben Armstrong'd meet his fate;
He'd have to listen to the call
For something up-to-date.
He'd have to take his 'phones and boards,

That crank by "Armstrong starters,"
That must be spun like Lizzie Fords,
More ancient than the Tartars;
And throw them on the rubbish pile,
With other useless things,
And buy a 'phone that's more in style.
That boasts a bell that rings!

But curse the man that dare decree
Destruction of the hall;
The building of antiquity,
That's cherished so by all.

So let us sing, both you and me,
The praise of Armstrong's name;
The praise of good old F. E. C.,
That built "The Hall of Fame."

OLD FASHIONED GERMAN PICNIC

An old-fashioned German picnic will be held tomorrow at No. 9, the Nordman grove, on the peninsula north of Ormond, under the auspices of the German-American society of this city for the benefit of the German Red Cross. The trip to No. 9 will be made on the steamers Cherokee and Seminole, of the Nutting line of excursion boats, which will leave from the wharf at the foot of Volusia avenue at 9:30 a. m.

The affair is a basket picnic and all attending are expected to take with them something in the way of a lunch or picnic dinner. The society will supply the icewater and other liquid refreshment.

The German-American society makes a point of holding an annual picnic of this character and a good time is enjoyed by those attending, and with good weather, there will probably be a big crowd present tomorrow.

Couldn't See the Wisdom.

Little Jack was found in the pantry covered with jam. His father said, "I think, my boy, you would better go and show yourself to mother." With a roguish look Jack replied, "No, daddy, I think I better."

RUSSIAN WOMAN SOLDIER ABLE TO PROTECT HERSELF

By BERNARD PARES,
Official British Observer.

Somewhere in Russia, we rode forward over the crisp snow. All around us lay a vast forest; the firs and birches were sometimes well grown and hanging with snow as in a Christmas picture, sometimes thin and straggly, but nearly everywhere with a rough undergrowth; there were broad glades surrounded on all sides with forest. There are so few paths that one does not lose one's way; very much of the forest stands on marsh, and is usually impassable, but now the frost has made it possible for small parties to penetrate almost anywhere, so that an enterprising sharpshooter might be lurking behind any tree. Our people some times go far forward in this way; they are more daring, and they can count on the help of the inhabitants, who are few and scattered, and have a wild and shaggy look, and know the paths, and there are some parts which can never be crossed without their guidance. Groups of volunteers act together. As we crossed a low hillock we heard shots that came from such a party, which was out in search of game.

Here there are elks and wolves and wild boars and wild goats. The wild goats seem to make an unnecessary fuss, considering their weakness. They go flashing about in the dark and keep the outlying sentries very much on the alert. The wild boar is a big fellow, with a nasty side twist to his stroke. He is aggressive, and sometimes makes a fierce rush at a camp-fire, sending the men up the nearest trees. At last we had a challenge, and a few yards further we reached our destination. It was an outpost in the middle of the forest. The men were all living underground. Among the rest was a stout young woman who had joined the troops on their way to the front, and serves as an ordinary soldier. She gave me her reason very simply and clearly: "I wanted to share with the brothers."

She does not wish to limit herself to dresser's work, and is always asking for more dangerous jobs, such as scouting. Her uniform is very suitable, distinguishable from that of the men, but not catching the eye: it is the voice that marks her out. The men treat her with great respect, which, I should think, from the look of her, she is very well able to enforce.

The outpost was a small nucleus, with some feel of security; there was a sort of rough housekeeping, with the cheerful gleam of fires, and men walking about freely; all the approaches were guarded by sentries. The regimental and battalion colonels made their rounds, and from here the officers of the outpost took us further on to a forepost on the edge of the forest. Here we found a small group of men, with a very elementary shelter. They were young and vigorous, and a seasoned veteran was in charge. In front of us lay some piles of timber, which were earlier utilized freely in the daytime by both armies. The timber lay two hundred yards off, and, as far as again, there was more forest, which marked the enemy's line. He has outposts and foreposts very much like ours, and he is probably in much larger force, but he does not undertake any ventures into our ground.

Either side might come across and sweep up one or other of the opposing outposts. Our people send out scouts, and two days ago one of them was killed close up to their line. On this, a whole number of our men crept forward with their rifles to recover the body; two got right up to it, but it was already stripped bare, and the enemy's fire made it impossible to carry it away. The Germans kept up a continuous fire the whole day. At night our people scoured the woods, but no enemy was to be seen.

At one this morning, I started off again to visit the advanced posts. I had an escort of two Cossacks and an orderly. The Cossacks belonged to a famous regiment which took 700 prisoners at one time in Galicia. They were tall, confident-looking men, with a good deal of intelligence and information, and a childlike simplicity of manners. As we rode along, one of the Cossacks with the most respectful manner, put me a whole number of questions on the war. They were simple, fresh questions, always to the point.

I usually find this mood in private soldiers when we are going to a dangerous place by night; it is that of a clever child going to a theater. He spoke of the wonderful keenness of everyone at the beginning of the war, now people were cooler, indeed it was better so, but when one thought of all who had given their lives in the Carpathians and elsewhere one could not admit of any end but the right one, otherwise we should have it all over again.

Russians passing along the open front from one post to another, find no hindrance. It is, however, nervous work out here. Wild beasts go past—a wolf or a bear—and one sometimes hears their teeth clash as they pass.

When our men attacked here two months ago, the Germans were swept out of some of their positions, and many prisoners were taken. There was no German counter-attacks, as the enemy entirely depends upon his entrenchments.

Quite lately there came through at this point a party of thirty Russian soldiers escaped from various parts, some far in the enemy's rear. They had organized into a unit and cut their way successfully through the German lines.

LAST SUNDAY OF TENT MEETINGS

The revival services which have been conducted in a big tent at the corner of Ridgewood avenue and Cypress street by Evangelist Miller, under the auspices of the Kingston M. E. church, South, of which Rev. J. F. Bray is pastor, will come to a close tomorrow. The meetings have created much interest and have been largely attended, the evangelist being a forceful and interesting speaker.

At 11:00 a. m. tomorrow, Evangelist Miller will preach on the "Second Coming of Christ," and at 2:30 p. m., he will speak to men only. At 7:15 p. m., the evangelist will deliver the last of a series of three sermons on "The Unpardonable Sin."

BRIDAL COUPLE DEPART FOR NORTHERN HOME

Quite a party of guests of the Prince George hotel were assembled at the railway depot this morning to bid good bye to Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Crane, who had been sojourning at the Prince George for a month and were returning to their home in Canton, Ohio. There was strong evidence that Dr. and Mrs. Crane were a bridal couple enjoying their honeymoon in Daytona as their friends and fellow guests at the depot were well provided with rice with which to give them a good send off on their journey northward.

One of the most enjoyable events of the week was the dance given last night at the Princess Isena. Music was furnished by Tucker's orchestra, and all the latest and most popular dance music was rendered. The dance hall was crowded with merry dancers, and a large number of spectators watching the fun. This merriment was enjoyed until the wee sma' hours, and a roaring good time was claimed by all.

A pretty birthday party was given at the home of Mrs. Will Jones on South Palmetto avenue, Saturday afternoon, in honor of her little daughter, Miss May's, ninth birthday, about twenty-five of her playmates came to help celebrate.

The house was tastefully decorated with pink roses, orange blossoms and potted plants. After the children had enjoyed all the childish games, dear to their little hearts, upon the lawn, ice cream and cake was served.

Little May received many beautiful presents. The little guests departed about 5:00 o'clock, all voting little Miss Jones a very charming hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Whitney, of Burlington, Vt., guests at the Ridgewood hotel, entertained at a dinner party at the Clarendon grill, Friday evening. Covers were laid for ten at a table beautifully decorated with cut flowers. After partaking of a sumptuous repast, the guests adjourned to the ball room, where dancing was enjoyed for several hours. A very pleasant evening was spent, and all the guests pronounced the host and hostess truly delightful.

PRISON WALLS ARE DECORATED BY A COUNTERFEITER

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., March 11.—

Albert Leon, who has been an inmate of the federal penitentiary here for the last three years, has turned to good account the talent which enabled him to establish a reputation as one of the cleverest counterfeiters the authorities ever discovered. He has decorated the interior of a chapel and several other apartments connected with the prison here, and says he is enjoying the work.

Leon's career of crime and the circumstances of his arrest constitute a chapter in secret service annals which surpasses in thrilling interest the most absorbing of dime novels. He established himself on the small island of Nootka, in British Columbia, and there set up complete counterfeiting paraphernalia. Leon not only was exceptionally expert in turning out excellent plates and prints but was ingenious in passing counterfeits. He turned loose a different class of counterfeits in practically every Pacific Coast city and town and was extremely successful in "getting away with his spurious note. Finally the secret service men raided the island and took Leon. Even this exploit was eventful. The secret service party was wrecked and had to be rescued by a revenue cutter.

Mushroom Hunting Dangers.

The advantage of rattlesnake hunting over mushroom hunting seems to be that you know the snake is poisonous. As near as can be made out there seems to be one sure way of telling the character of your find, and that was described by a foreigner who asked if gathering mushrooms was not risky: "All right, most every day. Bimeby somebody die, then we not eat for a week."

From the Latin.

The Russians, who were slightly influenced by the Latin races, say that "dogs bark and the wind carries it away," but the French, Spaniards, Germans and English, who have inherited more than they wish to acknowledge from ancient Rome, all agree that "barking dogs don't bite," and we have also in English the warning to "have a care for a silent dog and still water," which is clearly a free translation of the Latin original.

BATTLE OF VERDUN MAY GO DOWN AS BLOODIEST IN WORLD'S HISTORY

Great German Offensive Resulted In Loss of Thousands of Lives on Both Sides.

Eyewitnesses Describe Scenes Behind the Lines of Teuton and French Trenches.

THE German offensive, resulting in the battle of Verdun, has been called by competent military critics the bloodiest battle in the history of all the world. Whether this be an exaggeration or not, certainly as many men were employed as in any other struggle. The methods of slaughter were more highly developed, and the issue at stake was all important.

The Germans, after having leveled the French trenches by hours of artillery fire in which the great 42-centimeter siege guns played an important part, sent regiment after regiment of their best troops into the mouths of the French seventy-five. The French, unable to withstand the force of the great Teuton drive, executed under the supervision of the German crown prince, cautiously withdrew several miles and established new positions nearer the city of Verdun, which apparently was the objective of this offensive movement.

For days the fighting continued with unabated fury. The Kaiser himself went to the front for several days. The full story of this battle will never be told. After the war perhaps we shall know the total number of men lost, but how they died, what their sufferings were, the fate of their bodies, will never be known. Those heart touching sky cleared. From my high vantage point I saw before me the entire row of heights, from Fort Douaumont to the Cote de Froide, the main fortress line north of Verdun.

"Here the principal battle raged. Our heavy fire lay upon it. One could see the giant black clouds of the big calibered guns rise like enormous trees. The firing and fall of our heavy shells could be clearly followed. The masses of smoke that developed showed where fires had been caused. Behind Fort Douaumont, too, pillars of smoke seemed to signify the advance of the battle beyond this height that was now firmly in our hands.

"On the front ridge of the heights west of Douaumont numerous flashes caused by the enemy's shrapnel were observable, leading to the deduction that one of our infantry attacks was proceeding.

"Guns of all calibers roared about us. The firing also extended toward the southwest, over the fortifications on the opposite side of the Meuse. In the direction of Vacherauville the artillery fire of the enemy appeared to occupy itself almost exclusively with the foremost line and seemed powerless against the German artillery firing from the rear. During my long stay in the neighborhood not a single shell fell there. I could see Verdun with the naked eye. A large church was the most prominent feature. By means of glasses fires could be discerned in the town.

"I talked with some of our men who, after several days of attacking, had been withdrawn to the rear to get rest. They laughingly related how they had always gone farther than they had been ordered to go. On one occasion they had been told to take one hill, but instead they carried three in succession. They had now had a welcome wash, eaten well and slept well and were ready to get at it again.

"The fresh appearance of the troops and their splendid spirits astounded me in the face of the signs of such terrible fighting, and especially the calm, clear, almost unmoving sureness with which this titanic undertaking was being carried through, almost like maneuvers.

Stories of French Wounded.
Graphic narratives of the greatest and most terrible battle in history were told in Paris. Officers who had been to the front, most of them wounded, shuddered as they recalled the sights.

"They came in a flood, in an endless wave, those Teuton borders," said one officer.

"The French guns mowed them down in heaps, but still they came, pouring across the slopes in a ceaseless tide of humanity.

"The German infantry began their attack on Monday, Feb. 21. The first symptom of the battle favorable to the French was the inability of the Germans to silence the French artillery. The offensive opened with strong reconnoitering parties advancing, where they were noted a large proportion of officers.

French Work New Maneuver.

"Then came the infantry in great numbers. During the next two days the fighting waxed fiercer and fiercer.

"At first fourteen German corps were engaged, then sixteen and finally seventeen corps (340,000 men). The French command at this point carried out a maneuver which will be recorded as a masterpiece in military history. The German movements had been made under the cover of woods, in ravines and patiently prepared communicating trenches. If the French had tried to keep in touch with the enemy they would have been more or less in the dark and the operation of their own artillery greatly hampered.

"If the Germans had been only fifteen yards away the French could have been submerged by the attack, provided the attacking forces were prepared to make any sacrifice, but the distance

By HOPE AINSLIE.

"It's just this way, Uncle Ted. There's a girl up home, Betty Roberts, and we used to be rather sweet on each other. We both went to the same church and the academy, and I suppose I did write letters to her, and so on when I was seventeen or around there. Mother likes her and she's always said I'd marry Betty. Last year I went after that concession and met Mrs. Leonard. She loaned her collection of Chinese porcelains to the exhibit and I give you my word, Uncle Ted, from the instant we looked at each other I didn't give a rap whether I ever saw Betty or any other woman as long as I lived."

"Good looking, Jack?"
"She's just divine," Jack spoke fervently, reverently. "She's been a widow for four years; married at nineteen to a brute—"

"All good-looking widows' husbands were brutes," murmured the major. "Go on."

"That's all. I told her I loved her and she was giving me at least a chance until mother came out to Frisco and queered the whole thing. She met Mrs. Leonard at Aunt Anna's, and told her I was an impressionable boy, a perfect slave to sympathy and all that rot, always used to being petted, etc. Finally showed her Betty's picture as the little girl sweetheart back East waiting for me to get through my travels. You know the way she can put a thing over with that tone of her voice and her eyes. Well, I didn't have a chance after she had left. Dolores left for Santa Barbara the next day."

"Humph," mused the major. "Now she comes here. Did she know you were with me at the Springs?"

"No, sir. We haven't written."

"Well, I don't blame you, mind, Jackie. She's a wonderfully attractive woman. And you're twenty-six, you know, old enough to toddle without the maternal apron strings. I should say, Lucia is a fine woman, good sister to me, but still—what's this Betty like?"

"Oh, she's all right," said Jack vaguely.

"There goes the widow," said the major, suddenly leaning forward. "Gad, she can ride!"

Jack vaulted the veranda rail and made for the mounting stone to meet the chestnut mare as she galloped up the shore road. His voice was a bit husky when he spoke to Mrs. Leonard, slim and erect in her black habit, her hair wind-blown around her face, her eyes dark and evasive as he leaned toward her.

"Don't go in yet," he begged as the boy took the bride. "I must speak to you. You've avoided me ever since you found I was here. Dolores—"

"Hush, Jack. Someone will hear you, you foolish boy—"

"Don't call me a boy," he swung back miserably. "I'm not. Come along the pine road just a little way. You wouldn't speak to me hardly at lunch. I know you were sorry even to see me here—"

"Oh, no, I was not. It was a pleasant surprise, really it was, Jack."

"A pleasant surprise. It made me perfectly mad to see you again—"

"The train service to Santa Barbara is quite regular," she said demurely.

"You wouldn't have seen me. You left without a word. You believed every last thing mother told you about me and Betty."

"Did I?"

"You cared, didn't you? Even though you went away. Never mind Betty. I haven't thought of anyone in the world but you for the last six months. Uncle Ted took me under his wing and brought me South because I wasn't fit for anything else."

She smiled, leaning forward as he crushed her hands in his, and quoted softly under her breath—

I had not dreamt that love would stay, yet here he lingers many a day.

"Don't go away from me again, Dolores. I swear I'll follow you this time to the ends of the world—"

She laughed, her eyes brimful of tenderness.

"Oh, Jack, Jack, why didn't you follow me then if you really cared."

The major came leisurely toward them, the late afternoon mail in his hands.

"By George, Jack boy, here's news. Good afternoon, Mrs. Leonard. Betty Roberts eloped with Batcheller Phillips Saturday."

"I know Betty," said Dolores gently. "We are distant cousins, but she writes to me."

"Yes," writes to Jack, too, I should say. Here's one with a return line on it, Mrs. Batcheller Phillips, Washington, D. C. Hotel Grosvenor. Break the news to us, Jackie."

Jack opened the letter with a frown, and then smiled. He handed it to Dolores. It was typically Betty.

"Dear Jack: I know what everybody'll say, and I don't care. I've always liked Betty and I'd like to know why I can't marry him if I want to. So we're eloping. I'm just as sick and tired as you are of forever being hurried at your head. I've written Dolores—she's my cousin. I wish you all kinds of luck. Happily, BETTY."

Jack's shoulders unconsciously straightened. He turned resolutely to the major.

"Uncle Ted, I'd like to have you know it first that Dolores and I are engaged," he said. "God bless Betty." (Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

DECORATED BY FRANZ JOSEPH

Mrs. Augustine McIntyre, wife of Captain McIntyre, U. S. A., now stationed at Fort Myer, Va., is one of the few women entitled to wear the "Krieg Medalion" (war medallion) of Austria. McIntyre, for more than a year military observer of the United States in Austria, has just returned with his wife. At the start of the war Mrs. McIntyre became one of the leaders in the Red Cross in Austria and Emperor Franz Joseph conferred the honor on her for her work in the hospitals.

WOULD NOT BE HENPECKED

Virginia Man Sends Back Marriage License and an Explanation That Fully Explains.

Columbus, O.—Suffragette methods on the threshold of the altar has resulted in the muffling of the wedding bells for Geanie Wintz, thirty, a plasterer of Richmond, Va., and Julia Thompson, thirty-eight, a widow of Columbus, and their marriage license has been returned to the chief clerk of the probate court with a word of explanation from the bridegroom who was to have been.

Wintz in his letter to the court officials has this to say concerning the severing of marital negotiations with his bride: "You will find in close a marriage license, which I am returning unused. My objection for not performing the marriage was that my fiancée proved to be two bossie she started bossing just as soon as the license was granted. I am not in favor of woman suffrage, and I don't think that a man ought to be hen pecked, so soon. So the job is of and there is nothing doing no hen pecked business for me."

DOESN'T WORK ON THE MAYOR

Hypnotist Fails to Make Good and Is Soaked With Fine and Jail Sentence.

Alexandria, Ind.—"Mayor, I can hypnotize you in the very chair you are seated," said Arthur Ryan, aged twenty-eight, a mind reader and fortune teller, who attempted to ply his trade in Alexandria without a license. Mayor Wales told him he had the privilege of sending him (the mayor) into a trance.

"If you hypnotize me there will be no police court," said the mayor, "and, on the other hand, if you fail, we will have court."

The hypnotic agent went through numerous gestures, waving his hands and rolling his eyes.

His honor the mayor stood pat. "That's enough of that stuff," he finally said. "You violated a city ordinance and besides you are charged with drunkenness and malicious destruction of property. Your fine will be $6 and costs and six months at the state penal farm."

GERMPROOF SERVANTS NOW

Montclair (N. J.) Housewives Agree to Minimum Wage Scale for Healthy Help.

New York.—New York makes waiters possess a health card, but in Montclair, N. J., where already the barber, grocer, butcher, fishman, ice man and cooks have to flash a health diploma in order to do business, the coachman, gardeners, chauffeurs, butlers and housemaids are expected to step into line.

It isn't compulsory, but the Housewives' league has agreed to pay a minimum of $25 a month to all in these classes who can present a health board certificate that they are germ free.

Physicians of the health board will examine any aspirant and, finding he or she is hygienically up to hippocratic standards, will give him or her a nicely lithographed certificate to what effect, price $3.

VALUE OF STRATEGIC HIGHWAYS IN WAR

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The European war has proved the value of strategic highways, in supplementing railways to facilitate the movement of troops and supplies and many statesmen declare the time has come when the United States should develop such highways for use in case of war.

Representative Mudd, of Maryland, heads a group of national legislators favoring more liberal appropriations for developing such roads. He declared today that the United States should build strategic highways wherever necessary for use by the armed forces of the country in defending it against a foreign enemy in case of invasion.

"First of all Washington, the heart of the nation, should be provided with adequate means for proper defense, and to prevent a repetition of what took place during the war of 1812, when the British landed on the shores of Chesapeake Bay, and marched overland to Washington, where they burned the capitol building and the White House.

As a first step in this direction Representative Mudd offered a resolution for the construction of a strategic highway between Annapolis and Washington. Such a highway would contribute strongly to the mobility of the forces that may be called upon to defend Washington, the congressman asserted.

In regard to the position that the sewer connections will occupy in the streets in front of the individual properties, it will facilitate matters if the owners or representatives of owners will place a suitable stake at the point they may wish the sewer to cross under the sidewalk; this stake should be about two feet inside the sidewalk.

This note will refer to vacant lots as well as improved property as "Y" connections are placed in front of all lots. Should the interested parties prefer they may leave written instructions in regard to the above at the City Hall or with the Engineer.

GERMANS EXTEND THEIR OFFENSIVE.

BERLIN, March 11.—While maintaining a terrific drive against Verdun, the Germans are extending their offensive. They have captured Ville Au Bois, the woods near Rheims, by storm, and have taken several hundred prisoners.

PARIS OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

PARIS, March 11.—An official statement issued here announces the Germans renewed their assaults upon Verdun last night and gained some ground, but were later driven back by counter attacks.

WATCHMAN FINDS DANGEROUS BLAZE

Night Watchman George Ferguson discovered and extinguished a blaze at the rear of the L. G. Lyman building on Orange Avenue at between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, that might have had very serious consequences if it had not been taken care of in its incipency.

Hot ashes had been carelessly placed in a wooden barrel within a short distance of the house and close to wooden material which would readily have communicated to the building the blaze which resulted. When discovered by the watchman the barrel which contained the ashes, was pretty well consumed and the flames had spread to another barrel standing beside it. Mr. Ferguson secured water from an artesian well nearby and extinguished the fire, rendering good service to Mr. Lyman and his neighbors, by his fortunate discovery and prompt action.

Optimistic Thought.

Who would be innocent if mere accusation could convict.

Expected a Real Boat Ride.

A contest, for the enlargement of the Sunday school, entitled "A Trip to Palestine," had been planned by the superintendent. One mother, whose son George was a member of the school, hearing that the superintendent intended taking the scholars for a boat ride, hastened to remark, "Them can go what wants to, but I don't know whether I'll let George go or not."—National Monthly.

In Mexican Houses.

There are rarely fireplaces or stoves in Mexican houses. Of course, in the tropics these are not required, but in the cities of the uplands it is often bitterly cold. There is a popular belief that warming the air of a room by artificial heat in the rarefied air of the uplands induces pneumonia, but it is doubtful if this has any real foundation. And the Mexican prefers to shiver under cover of a poncho rather than to sit in comfort and warmth after the European or American fashion.

MOST DISASTROUS FLOOD SINCE 1825

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Twenty thousand are homeless, thirty-seven thousand acres inundated, and thousands of cattle and sheep drowned in Holland's most disastrous flood since 1825, resulting from the break of the dike protecting the lowlands from the Zuider Zee, according to a cablegram received at the State Department from American Consul Frank Mahin, at Amsterdam.

Fugitives from the flooded sections are lodged in Amsterdam and surrounding villages and are being supplied with food and clothing by relief committees.

"No estimate of the great financial loss can yet be made," he said. "This is the worst flood disaster in Holland since 1825, and in some respects it is even more distressing. The discomforts of the sufferers is being relieved by active individual work and by generous contributions of money. Besides there is a national water-disaster fund, created many years ago, and rarely touched, of a quarter million dollars."

Why Harsh Words Hurt.

Most people seem to feel hard words more than hard deeds, and are more upset by insults than by actual injuries. What we do to an enemy in war is done from necessity, but the evil we say of him seems to arise from an excess of spite.—Plutarch.

Safety First.

"You say that you want some name engraved on this ring," said the jeweler to the bashful young man. "Yes, I want the words 'George to his dearest Alice' engraved on the inside of the ring." "Is the young lady your sister?" "No, she is the young lady to whom I am engaged." "Well, if I were you I would not have 'George to his dearest Alice' engraved on the ring. If Alice changes her mind you can't use the ring again." "What would you suggest?" "I would suggest the words 'George to his first and only love. You see, with that inscription you can use the ring half a dozen times. I have had experience in such matters myself."—New York Journal.

SHIP TORPEDOED WITH 7 AMERICANS ABOARD

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Norwegian bark, Silius, sunk off the French coast Thursday night, was torpedoed without warning. She had seven Americans aboard.

This information reached the state department through United States Consul, Osborne, stationed at Havre. He also reported all the Americans were saved. A full investigation has been ordered by Washington and the matter is generally considered very serious. It is entirely possible a show-down with Germany may be the direct result.

CARRANZA GRANTS PERMISSION TO U. S. FOR COMING INVASION

He adds that Mexico has frequently been invaded by thieves and Indians from the American side. Americans have again been warned by the government to stay out of Mexico.

BROOKLYN NATIONAL'S ENTIRE SQUAD WILL BE HERE THIS AFTERNOON

The following Brooklyn National players arrived yesterday at noon from Hot Springs, Ark.: Jack Coombs, Ed Pfeffer, Rube Marquard, Sherrod Smith, Nap Rucker and Larry Cheney, all pitchers, and Catchers Otto Miller and Chief Meyers. They were joined at Memphis, Tenn., by Zack Wheat, outfielder, and Ollie O'Mara, shortstop. This detachment of old-timers look hale and hearty and seem to be in fine shape for spring training.

Yesterday afternoon, McCarty and Mack Wheat again chose sides for a practice game and for seven innings, an entertaining game of ball was played.

At the beginning of the latter half of the seventh inning the score stood 5 to 1 in favor of Mack Wheat's team, but the enthusiasm of their opponents ran high, and in this period of the game five runs were scored, making the total count of 6 to 5, for McCarty's supporters. Goodbred and Mills were on the firing line for the winning team, while Appleton and Priest shot the pill across the rubber for Wheat's aggression.

The application of "hair tonic" which is supposed to have been used on Uncle Wilbert's grass on the outfield has certainly done wonders for quick and efficient service. The genial manager is not to be caught napping and while the grass was growing green he played on the "safety first" order of the game and authorized a safety razor, in the form of a power mower to use in case anything did show up in the way of greenery and today the field is one mass of color, a tinge of deep rich green covering the entire grounds, making the outfield a thing of beauty, and a joy to the players in the outer gardens. At first it seemed a matter of impossibility to get the grounds in shape on account of the enormous amount of sand, and Uncle Wilbert has said time and again grass would be the only remedy—but how to grow grass or anything else for that matter, in nothing but sand is a problem—yet he did it and those closely in touch with the manager say he is making a strenuous attempt to get the formula of the hair tonic in question and have it patented for use on "special occasions".

Today, the nine men who arrived Friday, under the management of Pitcher Jack Coombs, will play the Superbas who have been training here for a week or more. Manager Coombs believes very strongly in his bunch of men most of whom are pitchers and in fact, so strong, that he walked a banter of half a hundred dollars in cigars over the training camp members including President Ebbets, that his team would "mop up" with anything Manager Robinson could rake up out of his hefty bunch of thirteen players. Uncle Wilbert seems confident that he can win the game yet he expects it to be full of interest and close. Possibly every pitcher in camp will be used in this game and Coombs says he expects to show today some of the best hitting twirlers in the league.

They are all very interesting young men to talk with, and are quite charmed with the beauties of Daytona, as well as the mildness of the climate after the chilling winds of the north.

Mrs. C. E. Tripp, a winter guest at the Despland hotel entertained C. T. Boal and Mrs. C. T. Wickes, Chicago, newly arrived guests at the hotel, at dinner Thursday evening. A very pleasant time was enjoyed, and much reminiscing done, as Mr. Boal and his daughter, Mrs. Wickes, are old friends of Mrs. Tripp, and they haven't seen each other for some time.

Mrs. W. J. M. Mead, Mrs. E. H. Wilman, Miss M. M. Gillick and Frank Kingsland, all of New York City, are recent arrivals in Daytona and are registered at the Prince George for a week's stay. The party drove here in a Chandler Six, and are en route for Palm Beach and Miami. Mrs. Mead is the wife of the president of the Chandler Automobile Company.

A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Sneed and child, Mrs. G. G. Brandenburg, Misses Hellen and Virginia Brandenburg, of Chicago, will spend an indefinite time on the beach, guests of the Seaside Inn.

ALLANDALE

THE IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

Hopes to be able to announce the installation of our Telephone service by next week. This energetic body of workers have other good things under way—we will list a few only:

Prettiest Station Grounds on the Railway.
Bridge Across the Halifax River.
Picnic Grounds at Harbor Point.
Deep Water Pier.
Women's Exchange.
Post Office.
Town Hall.
Library.

HELP THE OTHER FELLOW—HE CAN HELP YOU

That has not been adopted as the slogan of our Association, but it exemplifies the spirit of the organization. They seem to have the belief that "the other fellow" is of the same mind, and that every one is going to do his level best to make ALLANDALE a town of tomorrow.

PUBLIC SPIRIT

There are many towns that lack this most necessary element to inspire one to do his best.

We have the will to do things in ALLANDALE — everybody wants to help. If we prosper it will not be due to our optimism, but to the broad point of view that includes our neighbor's success with ours.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PARTY VISITS DAYTONA

A party of members of the chamber of commerce of Montgomery, Ala., a dozen in number, headed by Bruce Kennedy, secretary of the organization, were Daytona visitors Friday afternoon, arriving at 12:50 and departing again in the evening. Before coming to this city the party had been visiting Tampa, St. Petersburg and other places on the West Coast, the trip being made for the purpose of interesting tourists in stopping over in Montgomery on their way north to see the attractions that city has to offer visitors. While here they flooded the city with folders descriptive of Montgomery and its advantages.

His Sad State.

"My Uncle Festus is in a deplorable condition," related Maudlin Morosa. "He has such sinister symptoms and so many of them that he is firmly convinced that he is being hurried to the tomb by a serious malady, but just what it is he don't know. You see, he got hold of a patent medicine almanac giving a long list of symptoms which he at once recognized as being the very ones that he himself was entertaining, although he wouldn't have known he had 'em if he hadn't read it there in uncompromising black and white. And then he found to his horror that the next page, giving the name of the awful disease which caused those symptoms was torn out. So now he knows beyond the peradventure of a doubt that there is something terrible the matter with him, but can't determine what it is."

All Wind.

In an obscure country chapel a young minister had, as he thought, preached with considerable unction. He had used in his sermon, for an illustration of storm and peace, the storm on the Lake of Galilee. That storm was depicted as one of lightning and thunder, and rain and wind. As he came out of the chapel one of the members tackled him in the midst of the people. He began by saying: "That was a wonderful description of thine of the storm; the only thing about it was, it wasn't true. Who told thee it thundered and lightened and rained?" "Why," said the preacher, "those are the natural accompaniments of a storm." "Ah," said he, "but if thee had read thy Bible thee would have seen that it was a storm of wind. Just like thine."

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

St. Mary's church, corner South Ridgewood and Orange avenue, Rev. Robert McKay, D. D., rector. 7:30 a. m., celebration of the Holy Communion; 11:00 a. m., morning prayer and sermon by the rector, who will by request repeat a sermon delivered some time ago on "Job, a Character Study. Sunday school 9:45 a. m., in the guild hall. Daily services during Lent at 4:30 p. m., except Wednesdays, when the service will be at 7:30 p. m. Seats are all free, and a cordial welcome is extended to all.

Label the Boxes.

Every household has large boxes at least for hats, sometimes for furs and waists and other articles of dress, and many small boxes for other belongings. In the hunt for something almost forgotten the housekeeper often squanders precious moments in searching through every likely depository and probably comes upon the object of her quest in the last box of the selected group. All this waste of time and energy can be saved by the use of labels which record the contents of each box. Some recently noted captions of this kind were: "Blue Velvet Hat," "J. B.'s Panama Hat," "Small Tacks and Nails," "Empty Bottles," "Corks."

Unconvinced.

"Now, to illustrate the roundness of the earth," said Columbus, "I will show you an egg." "That doesn't convince me," replied the court astronomer. "If you had waited till the egg became an omelet it would prove that the earth is flat."

Bird Travelers.

The greatest travelers in the world are arctic terns, which fly 22,000 miles a year. Humming birds have been known to fly the 700 miles across the Gulf of Mexico. At a point half-way across they stop humming "Dixie" and begin "La Paloma."

Thought and Speech.

In spite of Emerson, consistency is a hobgoblin. Most of us cannot help feeling that what we have said one day we must abide by the next, and this makes us careful. We are brought up from youth to think twice before we speak, and so we do. We think, perhaps, three or four times; and when we have done our thinking we have begun to suspect that we are poor creatures anyway and might better not speak at all; which may be the case, or not.

How Water Melts Stone.

There are two things in rain besides the water itself that have the power to melt things, even the hardest stone, such as granite. These two things are nitric acid and carbonic acid. These acids eat away the stone, so that it seems the water slowly melts it.

GREAT EXODUS OF PROFESSIONAL MEN FROM ALL EUROPE

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The exodus of professional men and women from the war-stricken sections of Europe, has been greater since June 30, 1914, than at any other period in the country's history. In the 19 months ended January 31, last, 18,476 persons in the professions immigrated to the United States, most of them coming from England and France.

Teachers led the list. More than 3,000 were admitted and a large number secured employment in American schools and colleges. Many of them were private tutors. About 1,100 members of the theatrical profession came to this side. Members of other professions entering were: Clergymen, 1,600; engineers, 2,400; sculptors and artists, 706; musicians, 1,100;
literary workers, 400; physicians, 600;
electricians, 900; architects, 300; lawyers, 450; editors, 200. More than 3,500 other professional persons, not listed in the professions above named, were admitted to United States ports.

U. S. an Old Nation.

The United States of America is one of the oldest nations on earth.
With the exception of England and Russia it is, as a present nation, older than any country in Europe. And alone in the Western world, it has stood for the past 125 years with an unchanged government. Its boundaries have expanded and its constitution has been amended and it has gone through Civil war; but the United States is "ruled" today as it was ruled in 1783; and it is the only Western nation that is.

Why It Was Good.

The wife of the man who found his office mates measured by the gallon recently had an experience with a soda fountain boy in which milk played an important part. She bought one of those confections surmounted with a billowy layer of whipped cream.
To the feminine taste, at least, it was really delightful and was quite as pleasing to the eye as to the palate.
The pleased lady could not help expressing her delight to the young fellow behind the counter. "This cream is very good," she said. "It ought to be," replied the boy. "I just whipped it." And the lady is still wondering—

Otto Neubert, of Asbury Park, N. J., proprietor of the largest drug store in that seaside resort, is registered at the Prince George for a lengthy stay.

His Consolation.

"There's one consolation about being in jail, mum." "What is it, my poor man?" "After I once go to bed nobody here makes me get up and go down to be sure that the back door's locked."—Detroit Free Press.

FORMER MISSIONARY WILL TALK ON INDIA

Mrs. CAMPBELL BIXBY, WHO SERVED THE CAUSE OF THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION FOR 8 YEARS, TO SPEAK.

Another treat is in store for the Women's Class of the Daytona Beach Methodist church next Sunday, at 9:45 a. m., when they will hear Mrs. Campbell Bixby speak for a half hour on "The Customs and Religions of India." Mrs. Bixby worked for Christianity for more than eight years in the interior of India, and has many interesting and exciting experiences to recount, as well as a great store of information concerning the country, for whose good she has labored. In her lecture, she will embody descriptions of India's various religions and their general influence on the inhabitants. All who plan to attend next Sunday are assured a well heated building and a sufficient number of seats, but the officers of the class advise the people to come early, if possible.

This remarkable class shows by statistics that it contains members of 31 different denominations.

Labor.
Labor is the contest of the life of man with an opposite. Literally, it is the quantity or lapse, loss or failure of human life, caused by any effort. It is usually confused with effort itself, or the application of power, but there is much effort which is merely a mode of recreation or of pleasure. The most beautiful actions of the human body and the highest results of the human intelligence are conditions, or achievements, of quite unlaborious—say, of recreative effort. But labor is the suffering in effort. It is the negative quantity—or quantity of defeat—which has to be counted against every feat, and of defeat which has to be counted against every fact or deed of men. In brief, it is "that quantity of our toil which we die in."—John Ruskin.

WELL LOVED PENINSULA RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

MISS LUCY J. BLAKESLEE GOES TO FINAL REST FRIDAY AFTER-NOON. HEART FAILURE IS THE CAUSE OF HER DEMISE.

Miss Lucy J. Blakeslee, one of the best loved residents of the Peninsula, died suddenly of heart trouble, Friday afternoon, about 4:00 o'clock, at her home near the Methodist church, on Peninsula Drive.

Miss Blakeslee, had been to the church nearby to give any help possible to the ladies who were preparing the church supper for last night, and had gone to her home on an errand for them. When she failed to return after some time, several of the ladies went after her, and found her lifeless form resting quietly on the floor of her home.

This well beloved lady, a worker for the common good, has known of the weak condition of her heart for the last two years or more, and for that reason had all arrangements made in case of her death. She had left complete instructions with Bingham & Maley, the Daytona undertakers, and made it her last request that she should be buried 24 hours after her demise.

The funeral will take place at Pine-wood cemetery this afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, and the Rev. Robert McKay, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, of Daytona, will officiate with the Episcopal burial service at the grave only, as Miss Blakeslee had also requested.

Besides hundreds of friends, made in all walks of her life, the late Miss Blakeslee is survived by a number of nieces and nephews in the state of Virginia; a nephew, Henry Blakeslee, in New Orleans; and another nephew, Frary Blakeslee, in Orlando. This last named relative will be the only member of her family at the burial.

A will has been found by which she left all of her property, including her modest home on Peninsula drive, to nephews and nieces who were her nearest relatives.

The grief cast over the Peninsula by the sudden passing away of one of its best loved and respected citizens, is very great. The late Miss Blakeslee never knew anyone who did not soon become her friend, and during her residence here, has always been the principal helping hand in case of sickness or death among her friends and neighbors. The loss is great, but it is assuring to her friends to know that she has been going the daily round of life for several years, in all readiness to meet her Saviour.

Moose Teeth of Great Value.
The teeth of a gigantic moose skull found in the sand of a Wisconsin creek bottom have an estimated value of $50 apiece.

Made Jack Sweat.
While enjoying the new-found bliss of the honeymoon a doting bridegroom hired a tandem bicycle and took his bride for an afternoon's roundabout run. The fair lady knew little or nothing about wheeling. The fond husband got his head down and plugged along as hard as a galley-slave every inch of the 33 miles, and when they got to the journey's end the perspiration was streaming from every pore in his anatomy. But not so his charming wife. She stood by as cool and unconcerned as possible, and when the poor benighted had recovered his breath a little, judge of his feelings when she gingerly touched one of the pedals and sweetly inquired: "Oh, Jack, what are these little twirligigs for?"

Love and Goul.
Some sensitive, loving natures seen born with souls but most children and youth boast only innocence and joy. Loving comes later—a sweet and fragrant flower of the heart, born in gardens where tears are shed. Its coming seems to change the whole outlook upon life, the whole estimate of self. The birth of love seems also to be the birth of fear—not fear for oneself but for the one beloved, and fear's shadow seems ever to rest upon the loving heart; fear that they themselves do not give love enough; fear that their love be not returned; fear that life is not giving the cherished one all that is desired or needed; fear that some evil may befall the child or youth, the man or woman thus held supremely dear. There is fear that distance may remove them, that suffering or death may lay grim hands upon them, and out of these apprehensions of love the soul is born, the life becomes spiritualized by self-sacrifice, brave to defend eager to give patient to endure.—Baltimore Sun

DAYTONA BEACH LOCALS

R. L. Selden returned Friday after a short trip to Palatka and Ocala, where he went on a business trip.

A large crowd of people went over from this side of the river Friday night to attend the tent show which is being held west of the railroad on Volusia avenue.

Mrs. L. B. Hamlin and motor party of Orlando, visited for Thursday and Friday at the home of Mrs. N. C. Sears, on the river front and Peninsula Drive. They returned Friday afternoon to their interior home after a very pleasant visit on the Peninsula.

Mrs. Frank Smith and daughter, Florence, of Palatka, who came over last week for a short visit with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Harroun, of this town, will return to their interior home tomorrow. Mrs. Smith and family will be over later in the year to stay for the summer months as is their usual custom.

SMALL SCRUB BLAZE CAUSES EXCITEMENT

An alarm of fire was sent in Friday afternoon about 4:45 to which the Daytona Beach fire department responded very promptly. The cause of excitement proved to be a harmless brush fire on Atlantic avenue near Harvey street. Scores of people rushed to the scene after much loud and continued blowing of the fire signal at the Daytona Beach garage on Grandview avenue.

Little work was necessary to control the fire, which, being composed mostly of burning vegetation, gave forth a great amount of smoke.

The promptness of the department in responding was very remarkable, and proved that the safeguarding of the town from fire lies in good hands.

LADIES' AID HOLD SUPPER

IN M. E. CHURCH BASEMENT

The Ladies' Aid association of the Daytona Beach Methodist church, held a supper in the basement of the church Friday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock. A goodly number of hungry people were present and a neat sum was realized by the hardworking ladies.

Etiquette Rules.

The proper place for a woman in her own automobile or carriage or box at the opera is the right-hand corner. People in this country are not so particular about this as are English and continental, but it is a point worth observing by those who wish to give form and elegance to the daily conduct of life. Ceremony and punctilio can be carried too far, as in India, where the laws governing the manners and practices of the various castes are complicated to an exasperating point. But a society entirely devoid of etiquette is apt to be crude and ungraceful. To draw a line between that ceremonial which makes it a capital offense for a subject to look at the Lama of Tibet and the mannerless state of a mining camp is a perfectly possible achievement.

If Death Ends All.

And suppose after all that death does end all. Next to eternal joy, next to being forever with those we love and who have loved us—next to that, is to be wrapped in the dreamless drapery of eternal peace. Next to eternal life is eternal sleep. Upon the shadowy shore of death the sea of trouble casts no wave. Eyes that have been curtained by the everlasting dark will never know again the burning touch of tears. Lips touched by eternal silence will never speak again the broken words of grief. Hearts of dust do not break. The dead do not weep. Within the tomb no veiled and weeping sorrow sits. And in the rayless gloom is crouched no shuddering fear.—Robert Ingersoll.

SEABREEZE PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Dunn went up to Jacksonville, Friday afternoon to spend a few days in the state metropolis on a business errand.

F. W. Davison has rented the Hazel cottage on Grandview avenue for the next two months. Mr. Davison, who recently arrived from his home in the north, to spend some time.

The members of the Seabreeze high school parliamentary club are preparing an excellent program to be given on St. Patrick's Day, which is coming Friday. The entire program will be along the same lines and all people who desire an afternoon's entertainment and are interested in the work of the pupils, are cordially invited.

DUST NUISANCE IS BAD ON DAYTONA BEACH STREETS

In spite of the heavy rain, which laid the dust for a few short days, the main thoroughfares of the Peninsula are again a continual dust cloud during the busy hours. The street sprinkler can well be used to smother the clouds which hover over these streets continually.

A large majority of the bronchial troubles which are so prevalent just now, would be greatly alleviated, or rather prevented, if the streets were thoroughly sprinkled every morning and afternoon.

Evil Effects of Fear.

Fear is the acid which is pumped into one's atmosphere. It causes mental, moral and spiritual asphyxiation, and sometimes death, death to energy and all growth.—Florence Fletcher.

GALA SOCIETY WEEK AT ORMOND HOTEL

HOTEL ORMOND, Ormond Beach, March 10.—The reception given in honor of Mrs. Kirk Munroe yesterday by Mrs. Macon Thornton, at her home in Ormond Beach, was well attended and very much enjoyed by all who were invited. Miss Anna Owens assisted Mrs. Thornton in serving the refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Walbridge, of Toledo, Ohio, gave a birthday party to their small son Barnes, to which Miss Helen Phillips, of Milwaukee, Wis., Miss Eleanor Simmons and Ned Simmons, of Philadelphia, were invited. The children had a motor ride first, and then luncheon in the Ormond grill room, where a very attractive birthday cake was served.

After about three weeks stay at the Ormond, Dr. and Mrs. Phillips and Miss Helen, returned to their home in Milwaukee, with many expressions of regret that they had to leave so soon and they hope to return another winter.

Mrs. Kirk Munroe, Coconut Grove, Fla., has arrived at the Ormond for a short stay. She will speak on "The Seminole Indians" at the Anderson & Price memorial library rooms this afternoon.

A large party from Lynn, Mass., who have been having a very gay stay at the Ormond, left this morning promising that when the next snow flies in New England they will return to Ormond.

Stanley W. Timberlake and Mr. and Mrs. H. Lincoln, of Indianapolis, Ind., have arrived at the Ormond and will remain for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Edw. R. Love, St. Louis, Mo., have arrived at the Ormond for the remainder of the season.

Miss Rachel Weinman and Miss Bertha Weinman, of New York city, are registered at the Ormond.

W. S. Shields, Miss A. T. Shields, Miss Ruth Eddy, of Lexington, Ky., will spend some time at the Ormond.

Mrs. H. C. Worthen, of Atlanta, Ga., is registered at the Ormond.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Cody, of Boston, have arrived at the Ormond for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. J. C. Willever and Miss Willever, of Wyoming, N. J., are stopping at the Ormond.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Brown, Toronto, Canada, will spend a few days at the Ormond.

Mrs. G. L. Fort, Lacon, Ill., are registered at the Ormond.

Mrs. Mackay Smith, of Washington, D. C., is stopping at the Ormond.

Miss M. C. Curtis, Philadelphia, Pa., has arrived at the Ormond.

Accounting for Prairies.
The treeless prairies of Texas, Mexico and Central America are attributed to primitive Indian agriculture. Lands once cleared and afterwards abandoned were prevented by fire from becoming reforested, until all primitive agriculture ended in the age of grass, prairie fires, wandering buffaloes, and nomadic hunters.

Cost of Living High in Teheran.
In normal times Teheran, Persia, is one of the most expensive cities in the world in which to live, so states Vice-Consul Ralph H. Bader. Coal sells for $20 per ton; apples, $3.50 per bushel; cheese, 60 cents per pound; ham, 65 cents per pound; butter, 50 cents per pound. These high prices are largely caused by the lack of transportation facilities. Coal is transported to Teheran from the nearest mine (a distance of 50 miles) by donkeys. Goods imported through the Persian gulf are transported from Mohamurah or Bushire to Teheran (a distance of 800 miles) by mules and camels, and are usually from six to twelve weeks in transit. Goods imported through Russia are subject to a heavy transit duty and are transported across the mountains from Enzeli to Teheran (a distance of 250 miles) by pack animals and wagons.

HONOR THEIR DEAD

French War Graves Are Marked With Care.

Authorities Aim to Have Complete Roster of the Fallen Soldiers—Living Pay Tribute to the Dead.

London.—Interesting details regarding the manner in which the graves of soldiers who have fallen on the field of battle are identified are given in the following article, translated literally from the Paris Matin:

"Leave for a minute those trenches and earthworks. Let your gaze wander a little from the firing line. Look there in that orchard or there in that copse, or yet again on that crest. See, one, two, three, twenty little mounds. On every mound a wooden cross and on every cross a little khaki or red cap. The orchard is full of them; the copse is studded with them; the brow of the hill is fringed with them.

"Now cast your glance toward those two soldiers sauntering along with their pipes in their mouths or watch that cook hurrying along with the soup.

"Suddenly they come before the little mounds and they stop abruptly. At once the smokers take their pipes from their mouths, and the cook lays the pot upon the ground, and at once, silently, solemnly, reverently each right hand goes up to touch each forehead in the military salute.

"It's only for a moment; the tribute to the great dead is paid, and then they go on their way again.

"Along the whole battle line from the wooded mountains of the Vosges down to the sand dunes of Belgium every single sector has been placed under a separate officer, whose sole duty it is to identify and collect matter concerning every one of those little mounds.

"Not a single piece of information is allowed to slip by uncatalogued; each cross has its own humble chronicle all written down and indexed and catalogued.

"Each tragedy once chronicled is then copied in duplicate, one always accessible in case additional information should crop up and the other deposited at the nearest general headquarters.

"Nothing is omitted which could possibly afford a clue to the dead hero's identity—name, surname, regiment and rank—and then each grave given a number corresponding to the document.

"Often the number is burned on with a red-hot bayonet for fear by any chance the rain or mud should obliterate the treasured mark. In a word every chance of error is reduced to a minimum.

"Suppose, then, after the war, a family, English or French, or Belgian, wishes to trace the sacred soil where lie so many buried hopes. All they will have to do will be to address themselves to the civil authorities of the town where all the plans will be gathered together and they may obtain information as detailed and as complete as if they had themselves been present upon those terrible battlefields and will be guided to the lonely grave, be it lost amid some forest or hidden amid the quarries or simply one of a forest of similar emblems upon some open field.

"It is holy ground, each little humble grave—ground which was not bought by gold or by work, but by the man's own blood that has mixed with the dear earth that gave him rest there just where he fell.

"Is it not all marvelous? Whenever, too, some poor corpse is discovered during the course of the nocturnal patrol along the front of the trenches, outside the lines, there is no rest or respite till it is brought back to safety and to love—often at the cost of yet another new corpse in the rescue.

"Could any parent do more? The soil of France is the French soldier's birthright, and they feel as if the dead could not sleep the great sleep if German feet moved above the heads of their comrades, and so the chaplet of miracles goes on, each corpse making another hero.

"Weep not, you mothers, you wives, you daughters, though the days seem long and sad away from those spots of sacred soil whither your sorrows would bid you rush and mourn.

"No, weep not, but rather rejoice in your glory, you mothers and wives, and when the day comes, as come it must, when you will clasp these crosses to your bosoms before you take the sacred soil away—they will seem light crosses indeed, for in that day all your sufferings will have vanished before the strength of your joy—the joy of a victory that will give lasting peace to a whole world."

PINES' PROPOSAL

By JANE OSBORN.

"Honest, Dave, you've got to give me time," the red-haired advertising manager of the furniture firm of Pins, Pines & Noseworthy was saying to Dave Pines, who had lingered after closing hours of the store to speak to Miss Drew on what he referred to in his note beforehand as a "pressing matter of business."

"You sure did give me a surprise. Why, I'd no more idea that you had taken a fancy to me than that—that that we'd sell out of refrigerators in February. If the Morning Bugle was to send over here with the statement that we could double our Sunday advertising space for the same rate as we pay now I wouldn't have been more surprised. Give me time, Dave. When? Oh, let me see. Suppose you wait till after Sunday. I'll take next Sunday to dope it out. No, I can't possibly tell you any sooner. I have thought so little about getting married. I'll have to drop around to see my friends that have gone and done it and see what they have to say about it. Drop in next Monday at about this time, if you're still interested. And, whatever I decide, you and I'll always be good friends, won't we?"

"Say, that was kind o' clever copy, if I do say it, and that idea of yours to leave the chairs and tables on that special sale out in the rain for two nights beforehand just did the business. If they had come over in the Mayflower they couldn't have looked more like the real thing. Oh, that's so, it's Monday. No, I hadn't forgotten—had it down on my desk pad, but I guess I'd have remembered any way.

"Tell you my answer? Well, don't be impatient. Take it slowly, Dave, and then you'll see why I've decided as I have. You'll understand better. You know I wanted to handle the proposition squarely. As I told you it wasn't just an ordinary 'Will you marry me?' when David Pine asked red-head Peg Drew to be junior partner. You know I appreciate the compliment.

"So, I started off Sunday morning to see the girls I went to school with—Aggie Dayton, Pearl Hite, Julie Saunders and Moll Braum. They've all married and I thought they'd give me the dope I was after. And I guess I got it.

"Well, Aggie—I went to her house first. Knew she'd be at home. When a woman has six children and a good-for-nothing husband she doesn't stand much chance of being out on Sunday morning. I was out of breath by the time I got there, four flights up and such a racket! Youngest was cutting its teeth and oldest was yelling because he'd just had to have his baby teeth pulled out. She was mighty glad to see me, though. She hadn't seen any of the girls for years. You know how it is when a girl needs a friend—she usually can't find any. I didn't have to ask her how her marriage had panned out. I tried to cheer her up, though. She had been a good housekeeper once and I asked her why she didn't try this new game of economic independence, if her husband didn't earn enough to get out and earn it herself. But how could a girl like Aggie get out with six children hanging at her apron strings?

"Well, then I went to see Pearl Hite, and do you know I was almost scared to go in. Those butlers in plum-colored uniforms always did make me feel shy. Pearl sent down by her French maid for me to come up. She was having her coffee in her boudoir and, do you know, I hadn't been there ten minutes before she burst out crying and told me all about it. She's miserable. Husband's gone off with a vaudeville tango queen and it's all they can do to keep the scandal out of the papers.

"Next place I went was Julie's, and do you know it wasn't till I had reached her apartment that I knew she'd left her husband, though she said it had been in all the papers. It wasn't that he had done anything. She just couldn't get along with him; says that for a woman of independence and an 'emancipated intellect' marriage is a state of bondage. She said it was stifling her soul. So now she is studying law and says she's going to devote herself to making divorce easier in the state. 'Eventually,' she said, 'marriage will be like any other contract, binding only so long as both parties agree.'

"What about Moll? Oh, didn't I tell you? Poor thing! She seems to have been happy, but you know she married a German—Otto Braum was his name—and when the first reservists were called out he joined his colors in the fatherland, and it was only last month after all these weeks of anxiety that she learned that he had been killed in the trenches. So she's gone over to Berlin to join the Red Cross to try to forget her own misery. Poor Moll! And she used to be so light-hearted.

"You are not going, Dave? Why, you look kind o' disgruntled. You don't think you'll wait for my answer? Well, if that is the way you feel about it. I thought maybe when you heard you would want to go home with me and have the little dinner that Aunt Mandy has been making—real old Virginia chicken and corn bread.

"You see, Dave, after I had heard about those four girls and seen what a failure marriage had been for them I just wanted to try my luck and show folks that marriage is a pretty good invention after all. I've just been dying to tell you all day, Dave, but I wanted to get you guessing."

TAX TO INSURE ALL AGAINST ILLS

Would Have Government Collect Salaries of Physicians.

SCHEME MOST UNIQUE ONE.

Called Impracticable by Many, but the Idea is New—Compulsory Insurance Would Be Collected From Every Citizen, and Patients Would Be Allocated to Various Doctors.

Compulsory sickness insurance administered by the federal government was advocated in Chicago before the Federation of State Medical Boards of the United States by Dr. Otto V. Huffman, secretary of the New York state board of medical examiners.

Dr. Huffman proposed a plan under which he said all reputable physicians would have an assured income and the chief incentives to quackery would be eliminated.

The plan contemplated a tax of $2 a year on all wage earners whose income is less than $1,200. He estimates there are 33,000,000 such persons in the United States. Each would have the privilege of selecting his own doctor, but no physician would be allowed to carry more than 2,000 names.

"This would mean $4,000 a year for treating those that become sick or disabled. Statistics show not more than sixty of these would ever be sick at the same time," said Dr. Huffman.

Physicians Poorly Paid.

"In general, the public does not realize how miserably underpaid the medical profession is. There are 127,000 active practitioners in the country. Their incomes aggregate $63,500,000, an average of only $500 a year.

"Nor is it true, as has been often stated, that there are too many doctors. About 2 1/2 per cent of the population is constantly sick and disabled, an average of nineteen patients a day for each doctor. This does not take into account much of the practice of specialists.

"Furthermore, insurance company statistics show 69 per cent of the insured have some impairment of health. It is impossible for a doctor properly to look after more than sixteen patients in eight working hours. At prevailing fees this just about pays expenses.

Would Prevent Sickness.

"Under compulsory insurance we would be paid to keep our clientele in sound health, and it would be against our interest to have sickness occur.

"When the medical profession is paid to prevent sickness and is a loser when any one becomes ill, the day of the quack and the charlatan will be past."

The United States in a few years will have an army of 1,000,000 men ready to take the field. To meet the requirements of this vast body of men at least 10,000 surgeons will be required. So asserted Dr. W. C. Gorgas, surgeon general of the United States army.

Dr. Gorgas was urging the adoption of a proposal for a national conference of medical examiners, composed of representatives of state medical examining boards throughout the country. Candidates who passed this examination would be eligible for the United States medical reserve corps and would not have to pass any other examination for licenses to practice.

Dr. Haven Emerson, New York commissioner of health, said Dr. Huffman's plan was "impossible propaganda."

"I'll admit doctors are underpaid. It is apparent in the city departments, where engineers and legal experts get about twice as much as doctors. I suppose the doctors can let their good works be their own reward. The public seems to expect that of them. I think the doctors of the state and country see much more promise in the new health insurance laws than in any such fanciful scheme as Dr. Huffman suggests."

John Brown's Compass Found.

A compass, once the property of John Brown, which played a part in early history, has just been received at the museum of the Kansas State Historical society in Topeka. John Brown used the instrument when he was living in Osawatimie, in the years between 1855 and 1858. During the Missouri-Kansas border warfare in those days, the story goes, the abolitionist leader used the compass in a pretense of surveying land, when in reality he was locating and mapping the camps of proslavery men.

1,429,171 PRISONERS ARE NOW HELD IN GERMANY.

The semi-official transoceanic news bureau announces that 1,429,171 allied soldiers are now prisoners in Germany. This does not take into account many prisoners captured by German troops, but left in Austria-Hungary to shorten transport.

There are now in Germany 9,700 captured cannon, 7,700 military carriages and 3,000 machine guns. Many captured guns were put into immediate use by the Germans and are therefore not included in this statement.

The number of rifles captured in fit condition for use is 1,300,000.

GEM CITY MINSTRELS SCORE BIG SUCCESS

To say the performance given by the Gem City Minstrels at the New Daytona theatre last evening pleased a large audience would be but repeating what has been said on the occasion of other appearances of this local organization. The theatre going public have come to expect a treat when the Gem City Minstrels is announced, and are never disappointed. Last night's performance proved to be the best yet given by them and was thoroughly enjoyed.

The stage decorations were excellent, reflecting credit on Karl Von Kass, the scenic artist.

Every number of the program received a hearty round of applause. Sheff Wright in his monologue was at his best; the violin solo by A. E. Donnelly was another favorite, also the cello solo by George Nemias.

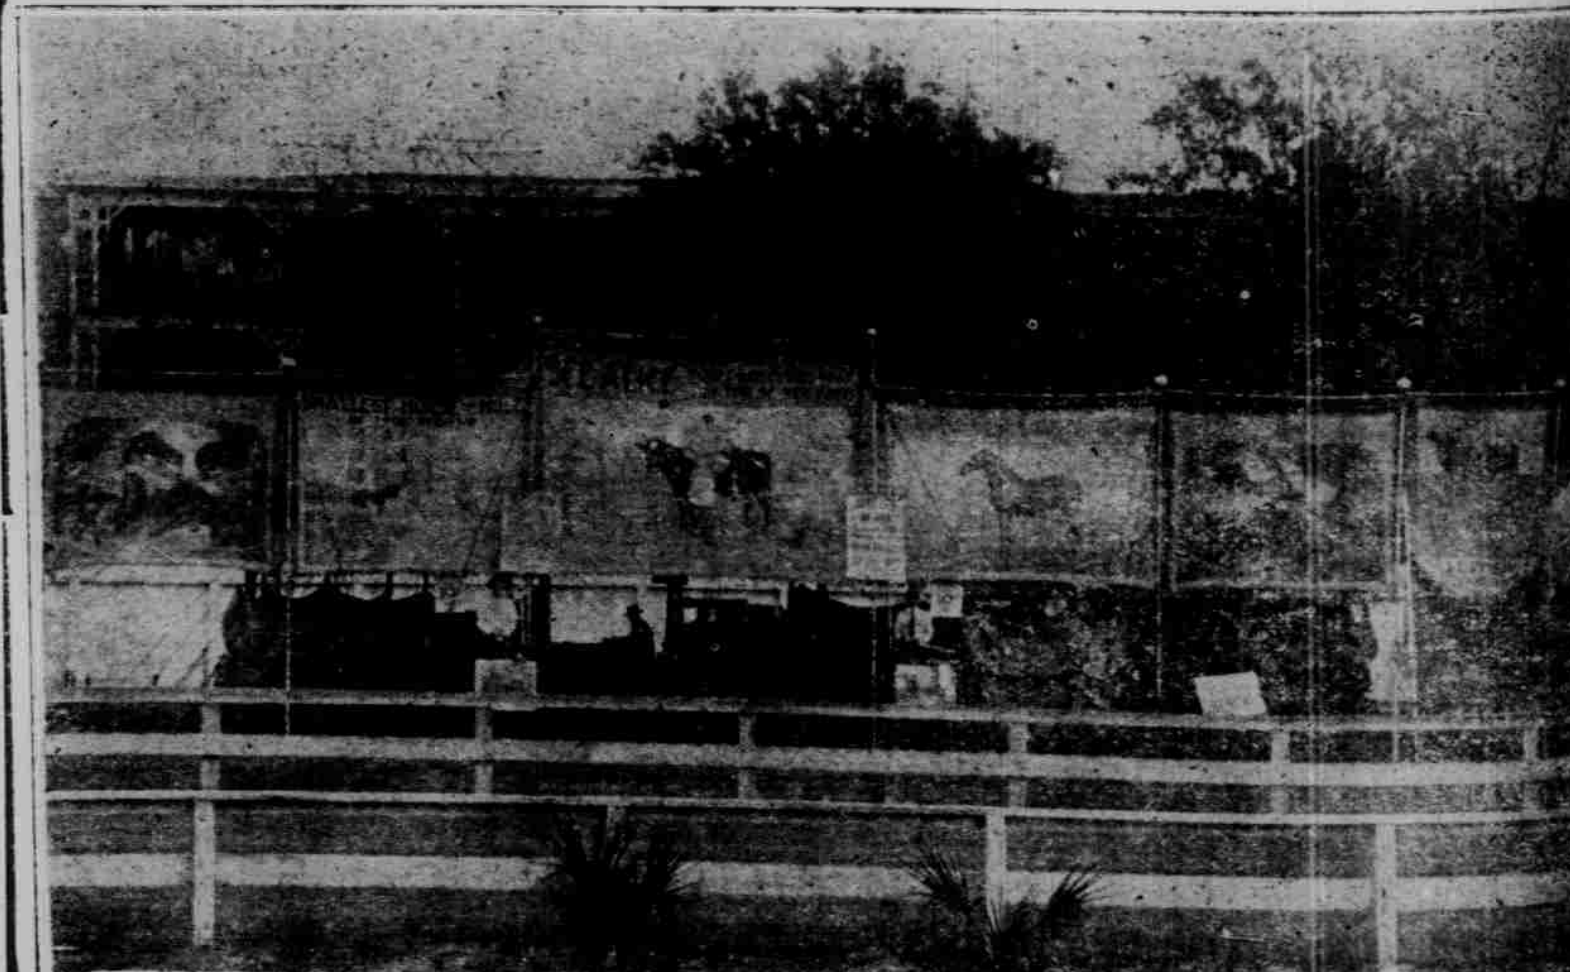

"Ghost and the Coon," produced by Otis Pelletier brought down the house. It was a good show from the opening number to the close of the program. The Crystal orchestra furnished the music.
